Being with the Nature:

It is mother nature which is full of surprises, the rising sun, the cool breeze, the flowing streams ,chirping of birds ,the lush green forest and the twinkling stars unfold a magical world for the young children. We the elders must take our children to such paths where they can experience the bountiful learning of Mother nature.

Suggested activities for the above mentioned:

1. Let's go for a morning walk early in the morning and experience the rising sun.
2. While going to a park lets count the trees there and hug a tree to feel the bonding.
3. Let's plant sapling in your garden and water it everyday and see the magic after a couple of week.

Good Habits:

The wholesome development of a child depends on various factors and every single step counts a lot in this prospect. Healthy reading habits are one of them, books are always known to be our best friends because we can relate with various characters of the stories and also could learn a lot from them. As our children are too young we the elders may motivate our children towards the interesting world of books by reading out atleast one story to them everyday and the fruits we will see when these children will grow up. The following stories are given for the above mentioned purpose:

The Man and The Fish

Once, a man was very fond of eating fish. He decided to go fishing. He took his rod and went to the river to catch fish. He sat down and waited for a fish to come by. But he could not catch any fish though he spent many hours waiting for a fish. He decided to give up and go back. Just then, a large Salmon got hooked to his fishing rod. The man thought, "Wow! Just when I was giving up the fortune smiled on me. Well, it is a big catch!" After catching such a big fish, the man did not panic and remained calm and handled the fishing rod with care and patience. The man pulled out the Salmon with great care and returned home happily.

Moral: Do not give up until the desired goal is achieved.

The Wise Dog

A dog decided to go for a walk along the river. His mother warned him by saying, " Do not go too close to the river. It is full of monsters that eat living beings." The dog said, " Yes mother. I will not." Then he left. After walking for a few miles, the dog felt thirsty. However, he remembered his mother's warning and did not go near the river. A cunning crocodile was watching the dog. He wanted to eat him. So, he called out to the dog, "You seem to be thirsty. Come and have a drink. We can be friends as well."

However, the dog ignored the crocodile and did not go near the water. Then he ran home and told his mother about the crocodile. His mother was very pleased with him. She patted him on his back for being an obedient child.

Moral: We should obey our elders and follow their teachings.

The Fly and the Mule

Once, there was a mule. He used to draw a chariot. One day, the mule was pulling the chariot as usual. But he was very tired and was pulling the chariot slowly, at that moment a fly came and sat on the wheel of the chariot. She said to the mule, "Why do you pull the chariot slowly? If you do not pull it faster , I will sting you on the neck." The mule retorted, "I am not scared of your threat. I only care about the person who is sitting above me. I follow his command. If I walk slowly, he can increase or decrease the speed according to his needs. So, you please go and let me do my work.

Moral: We should not deviate from our goal and must think rationally.

The Revolt of the Organs

One day, all the organs of the human body decided that they would not serve the belly any longer. The eyes said, "We will not look for food and water for you!" The nose said, "I will not smell healthy food for you!" The hands said , "We will not cook food for you!" The teeth said, "We are tired of chewing food to feed you!" The belly heard everyone patiently. Then it replied, "Do as you please. But you will regret all this later." The organs did not listen to it. As time passed, the eyes could not see properly. The nose could not smell correctly. The hands had trouble in movement and the teeth felt dry and weak. Now they realized that serving the belly had kept them healthy, too. But it was too late. The body was dying.

Moral: We should always help each other.

Name of some other books suggested for reading: 1. The sky is falling.

2. Little red riding hood.

3. Cinderella.

4. Stories of Panchatantra.
